

HERALD CAMERA-MEN TELL THEIR STORY

Scrapped by Arms Treaty, Becomes a Floating Armory

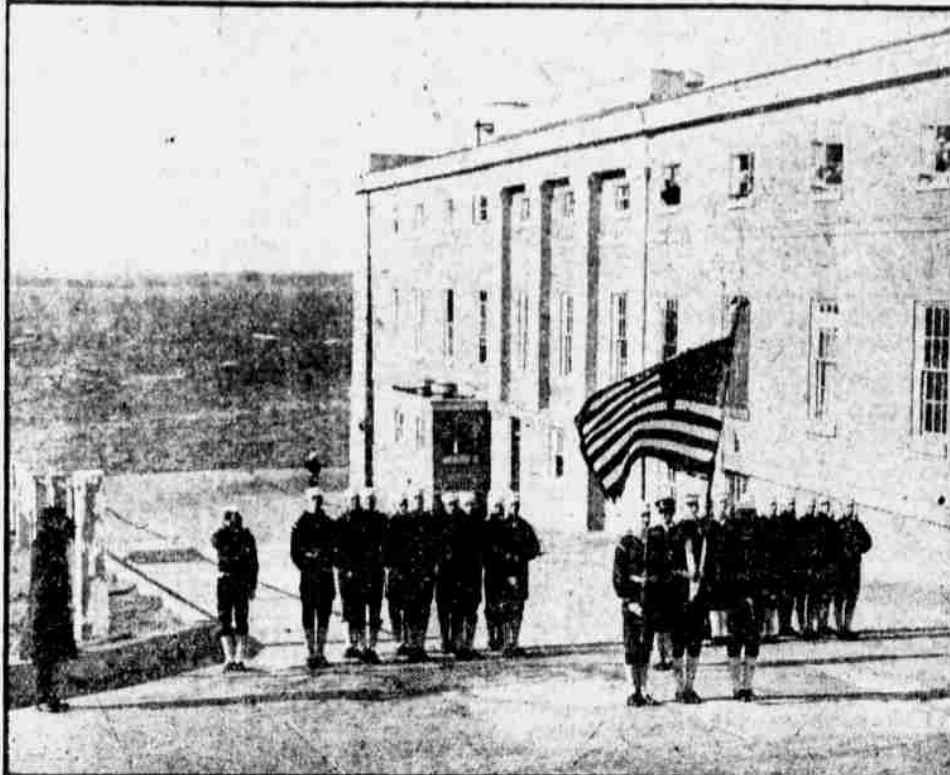

(By Pacific & Atlantic)
This doesn't look much like the once stately battleship Illinois, which was ordered scrapped to comply with the arms pact. She is being turned into a floating armory at the Brooklyn, N. Y., navy yard.

Double Wreck Brings Death to Two

Death came like a bolt of lightning to engineer and fireman of freight train which crashed through open switch near Richmond, Va. A second freight plowed through wreckage of first train, piling up cars in twisted heap, as photo of unusual disaster shows. If the train had carried passengers instead of freight many persons would probably have been killed.

Navy's Prize Drill Squad to Compete Against Army

(By Pacific & Atlantic)
This is crack drill squad of the navy, stationed at Newport, R. I. Under command of Lieut. John Davis it will march against picked teams of army and marine corps in competitive drill at Boston, Mass.

Fun Was Enjoyed by All

This bizarre scene was staged on main street of Atlanta, Ga., in initiations of Anak society of Georgia School of Technology. Citizens enjoyed laugh.

In Wrong

Because she did not declare $17,000 worth of gowns that she bought in Paris on recent trip, Mrs. Jules Baehr, wife of the New York banker, must pay $26,000 in fines before she can obtain seized goods.

What the Red Cross Does for Tubercular Children

Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, pure food expert, is shown above with tubercular children in their school at Washington, D. C., which is maintained by the sale of Tubercular Christmas seals sold by the American Red Cross.

Girls as Peggage Smashers at Opening of Station

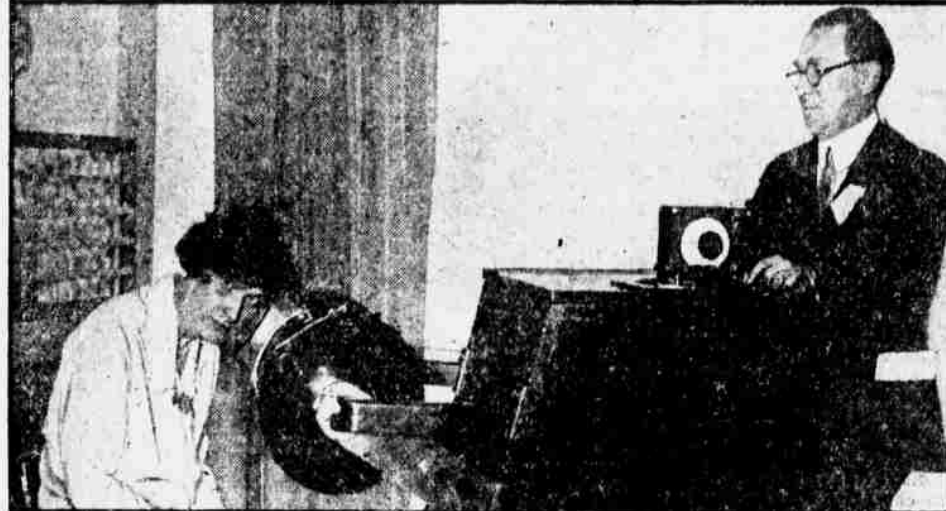

(By Pacific & Atlantic)
Isabel Rockefeller, daughter of Percy A. Rockefeller, financier, and a grandniece of John D. Rockefeller, Sr., is a teacher of biology at Teachers' college, Columbia university, New York. It was learned the other day. Her work has been classed as outstanding by college authorities, it is said.

Unusual crowd attended opening of new railroad station at Ogden, Utah. The first ticket sold was given on the first day of silver and was purchased by the Ogden Chamber of Commerce. Ogden's prettiest girls acted as baggage crew, some of which are shown above.

Latest Method of Having Superfluous Hair Removed

(By Pacific & Atlantic)
This young lady is not being X-rayed; she is merely having superfluous hair removed by a process demonstrated at the hairdressers' convention in New York. Bob for day and sport—the puff and curl for evening is the slogan of the convention.

Weds

Thelma Irene Chrysler, daughter of the automobile magnate, was married recently at Great Neck, N. Y., to Byron C. Foy of California.

Object Lesson for Negligent Wrappers

In Real Life Photo

Wrap your Christmas packages well or the friend you wish to remember may never get it. This man at the general post office in New York and many others throughout the country will be kept busy during the holiday season repairing broken wrappings.

Greetings

Laura De Card, motion picture actress, made a pretty picture upon arrival in New York from the continent.

On Their Wedding Day

No wonder Belle Bennett, screen and stage star, and Fred C. Winderemere look so happy here. This photo was taken on their wedding day in Los Angeles, Cal.

Hello

(By Pacific & Atlantic)
Jean Acker, former wife of Rudolph Valentino, movie sheik, wearing the latest in neck scarfs—one with a cross-word puzzle motif—was one of the arrivals on storm-tossed liner Olympic.

Do you recognize her? You should, for she's a screen star that you have seen many times. It's Norma Talmadge in real life, minus movie makeup, from passport photo. She and husband sail Dec. 17 for Europe.
